Action on 'divided' school

BY JAMES AVERILL

EQUALITY and Human Rights Commission bosses have vowed to crack down on a Muslim school that has been criticised for segregating male and female staff.

In a stinging letter to education secretary Nicky Morgan, Ofsted's chief inspector Sir Michael Wilshaw expressed concerns about gender segregation at the Rabia Girls' and Boys' School in Luton.

An Ofsted inspector found men and women were being segregated through the use of a dividing screen across the middle of the room, while training sessions for staff were broadcast to female staff in another part of the school.

The Department for Education has now referred a case to the Equality and Human Rights Commission (EHRC), with a spokesman adding:
"It is unacceptable for women to be treated less favourably than men, and the note we have received from Ofsted is extremely concerning.'

Orsted is extremely concerning.
Rebecca Hilsenrath, chief executive of the EHRC, said: "We will look at this carefully before deciding what action to take to ensure this Luton school ends its practice of segregating male and female staff.

But the school has hit back at the claims, saying it has been 'unfairly targeted' and 'harassed' by Ofsted. Despite inspectors finding improvements at the school, the segregation issue resulted in it retaining its 'inadequate' rating.

In his letter, which was written on Wednesday, Sir Michael wrote: "The school insisted on segregating men and women through the use of a dividing screen across the middle of the room.

"This sort of behaviour manifested by the leaders of this school clearly does not conform to the spirit of the equalities legislation.'

equalities legislation.

But in a letter of their own to the Education Secretary, Rabia Education Trust - which runs the school - said it was not aware it was undermining any British values.

It said: "We feel that we are being unfairly targeted and harassed by Sir Michael Wilshaw.
"Six of his own inspectors did not fail us previously for using a screen in a religious setting.

"He is jeopardising the education of our pupils due to the effort being spent on dealing with this issue."

Justice at last.

Terror cops make arrest

arrested over alleged terrorism offences. The man was seized on Wednesday by officers from London on suspicion of being involved in the commission, preparation and instigation of terrorism. He is currently being held at a south London police station.

Investigations have now begun into the suspected offences, including plans to travel to Syria to support a proscribed organisation. The arrest comes just weeks after Luton man Junead Khan was found guilty of plotting 'Lee Rigby' style terror attacks against soldiers

He and his younger uncle Shazib Khan, 23, also from Luton, were also found guilty of engaging in conduct in preparation of terrorist acts. Both men will be sentenced on May 13.

If you're not on the list - does it matter?

THE UK'S worst, dirtiest and unhappiest: Luton has put in an appearance on all of these unflattering lists over the years – unfairly or otherwise.

But this week we add a new string to our bow. And, for once, it is a pretty Luton has appeared in a list of the 'trendiest' towns and cities in the UK, as compiled by The Mirror.

It was figured out using data about the percentage of young people, of creative businesses, of top notch restaurants, new businesses and new people to the area – all the good stuff. Luton hit the number six spot, beaten only by Oxford, Cambridge, London, Brighton and Manchester, So good on you, Luton.

This list feels more about defining what makes our town unique and special. Perhaps the greatest favour we could all do ourselves is to stop the incessant 'listing' altogether.

By definition, lists eliminate quirks and anomalies - all the parts we tend to like most about our towns.

Threats to bus service subsidies prompt 'use it or lose it' warning

BY JAMES AVERILL editor@lsnmedia.co.uk

A BUS users group has called on residents to use buses or face losing them - as imminent cuts to subsidies threaten to reduce the number of services. Central Bedfordshire Council is looking at reducing the number of subsidised bus services and cutting the times people can use bus passes in a bid to save money. A consultation launched by the council is asking for feedback from passengers, as it determines which services to stop funding - many of which pass through

The council currently subsidises 53 per cent of the bus services in Central Bedfordshire, costing taxpayers £1.2 million in 2015/16.

Now it is aiming to slash costs by more than half and make savings of around £650,000.

It could signal the end of a number of underused services, particularly those on a Sunday.

But Colin Franklin, the vicechairman of Bedford Area Bus Users Group, which covers Luton, said he could sympathise with the council and warned residents they needed to use the services or face losing them. He told Luton on Sunday: "Local authorities are being systematically asked to trim their budgets.

"It's no good them supporting a bus service that is carrying fresh air. If people don't use the buses then the council is going to turn around and ask why it is continuing to fund them."

The move has already sparked complaints that villagers will be left stranded

The 43,000 residents who own a bus pass would only be able to use it between 9.30am and 11pm on weekdays, if the consultation changes go ahead.

A Central Bedfordshire Council spokesperson said: "To work out which services to subsidise, we have proposed a new assessment

"This could potentially affect any service that does not meet our minimum requirements.

"If the council stops subsidising a service, it is possible that a bus company would stop running it."

DJ left in a mix over carnival party plans

A DJ has claimed he was told by police to remove any mention of Luton Carnival on an advert for a party afterwards - in case it led to rowdy youths causing trou-

Charles Morgan, who goes by his stage name EJ the DJ, is hosting a dance party at Ruby's Bar and Cuisine, in Chapel Street, following the carnival on May 29.

Flyers advertising the event said it would help celebrate 'the 40th anniversary of Luton Carnival'.

Charles claims he was told by Bedfordshire Police to remove the word 'carnival' from the flyer, for fear that it could result in 'an incident'.

Bedfordshire Police meanwhile have said the flyers were only asked to be removed as a risk assessment form for the event had not been submitted.

Charles said: "I was told that the use of the word carnival could lead to vio-denied that they had asked Mr Morgan to remove the word from the flyers.

They said he had not filled out the relevant forms, so was asked to refrain from promoting the event until this was done.

They said that there was 'no issue with the word carnival' and added that there had been no arrests at last year's event.

A spokesman told Luton On Sunday: "Luton Carnival is a fantastic event that brings thousands of visitors to the town.

"However, with that it requires us to manage any risk to ensure this event continues to be enjoyed safely by all. We have a duty to protect the public and work closely with the UK Centre for Carnival Arts and any event promoters to run safety and risk assessments.

"We asked that this promoter follows the same protocol as all the others and now that we have received the risk assessment, there is no issue with the event being promoted.'

Peter McCann's body was discovered in a green

Lucky escape as high-rise fire destroys home

FOUR people got away with their lives on Monday when a fire tore through a high-rise flat.

Bedfordshire Fire and Rescue Service extinguished the flames in Green Court, Hockwell Ring, Luton, that left the property severely damaged.

Four people, three adults and one child, were inside the building when the fire broke out, but managed to escape before the fire service arrived.

Fire Control received the first of several calls about the fire in the second floor flat at 2.15pm and sent fire crews from Luton and Dunstable and Leighton Buzzard to the scene.

The fire left 50 per cent of the property damaged by fire and the rest damaged by heat.

Town fan's tribute to Hillsborough 96

BY NICK SMITH

nick.smith@lutononsunday.co.uk

A HATTERS fan made an emotional pilgrimage to Liverpool's football ground on Wednesday to pay tribute to the 96 fans who lost their lives in the Hillsborough disaster.

David Watkins, 58, spent three hours driving to the club's Anfield home so he could lay a Luton Town shirt among tributes to the victims.

The disaster claimed the lives of 96 people on April 15, 1989, when a crush built up in the Leppings Lane end of the Sheffield stadium.

This Tuesday, the families of the victims won a 27-year battle for justice, which absolved Liverpool fans of any wrongdoing in the buildup to the tragedy and placed the blame on South

Yorkshire Police, among others. Mr Watkins, said

Mr Watkins, said the disaster had left a 'scar on the game'.

He added: "I was watching the day as it unfolded and I have great sympathy with the victims, their family and the city of Liverpool.

"It could have been me or a fan from any other club." Mr Watkins laid the Luton

Mr Watkins laid the Luton es Town shirt (inset) – adorned with the message 'Justice at last' and 'Respect LTFC' – amongst a sprawling arrangement of flowers and football scarves left at the ground.

He added: "When the truth finally came out, I was quite moved, so on behalf of myself and the club I made the trip.

"There's a lot of vitriol in football but what struck me was the dignity with which the people of the city expressed themselves.

"The tributes were mostly from Liverpool fans but there was a number laid by Everton fans, the city is together."

Former teacher cleared of attacking schoolgirl

A FORMER Luton PE teacher accused of raping a teenage schoolgirl in the back of his van 40 years ago has been found not guilty

The 62-year-old man, who cannot be named for legal reasons, was acquitted by a jury after telling the court the claims were a 'pack of lies'.

Taking to the witness box on Wednesday the happily married man of 41 years said he had never had any sexual contact with a pupil during his long career.

The former teacher went on trial at the start of the week, pleading not quilty to a single charge of rape between March 1976 and March 1978 when the girl was aged 14 or 15 years old.

The woman, now 54, had told the court he had raped her on a mattress in the back of his van.

A 'LONER' charged with rape and sexual assault threw himself to his death just hours before he was due to stand trial.

Peter Wainwright died instantly after jumping from the Silver Street multi-storey car park in Luton town centre

A POPULAR outdoor farm and education centre in Whipsnade has been saved from imminent closure, for the time being.

A public consultation on the future use of Dell Farm was launched last month by Luton Borough Council, after reductions to the authority's and operator Active Luton's funding put its future in doubt.

But after positive feedback, the council has agreed to grant an extension of time until summer 2017 for Active Luton to prepare a credible business plan.

BLOGGER OF THE WEEK: Akbar Dad Khan

Tackling extremism

This week, the leader of community group Building Bridges Akbar Khan speaks about the importance of engagement with the Muslim community to tackle extremism and how he thinks we should act to eliminate the threat before it takes hold

AS a reasonable informed Muslim, casting an eye over some of the related issues in the last few years do not fill me up with joy or pride.

Parents and grandparents of nearly two million Muslims settled in the United Kingdom and came for a better life, in spite of many kinds of hardships.

They never came here either to address any past grievances or to be part of an advance party seeking to promote a parallel society within Britain.

A kind of ethos has been allowed to come about gradually over the last two decades, in a stealthy way. Changes to accommodate Muslim communities more will naturally evolve with passage of time.

The main thrust for such communal convergence towards socio-political uncharted waters have come by religiousity playing its role in name of spreading Islamic message as one of its fundamental duties.

mental duties.
Establishment and promotion of supportive political tools to further this misty goal of establishment of some strong kind of influence, both at local and national level, is being pursued, for which you only have look at workings of Muslim schools, with help of imams controlling of council by older generation males and segregation of Muslim communities from majority communities.

Extremism thrives in such circumstances.

This represents a horrific picture, where young people are growing up separately, families are not interacting and there are no government efforts to address this.

It would not be an over estimation to say that we are storing serious difficulties for times to come. Why has the situation been allowed to reach the point where the threat to national security from terrorism has been at the highest level for a few years?

Four major terrorist acts have come into being since 9/11. And around 150 people have been convicted for terrorism offences. Around 1,000 remain in serious risk of radicalisation.

And according to the Home Secretary in 2003, she thought there were 34,000 active radicals present in the UK despite repeated representation from community groups. The Government continues to cling to its failing 'Prevent' strategy - one of the glaring questions which needs addressing.

'Why have governments not been able to contain and eliminate the threat we face today?' is a million dollar question.

In absence of credible explanations we have no option but to that it is scared of Muslim backlash, which in my view is not well founded.

my view is not well founded. An overwhelming Muslim majority will support all reasonable steps to contain and eliminate extremism in all forms as faithful citizens of the realm. It is a multi-layered issue, where direct engagement with Muslim communities should be central to any strategy.

The feeling I am getting is that he wants this strike to go ahead so that he can then say that the NHS is not good enough and needs to be privatised. This should never happen.

Please do everything in your power to tell Jeremy Hunt to stop being so stubborn and get back to the negotiating table.

You can't let him be the beginning of the dismantling the NHS as we know it now.

Blood on their hands

IF anything happened to my loved ones while the junior doctors were on strike, who would I hold responsible? The government of course.

Not the doctors.

The government never take the blame for any of their actions.

They start wars that our children die in.

Who do you blame?

The generals, officers or N.C.Os? No, it's the politicians fault every time. Yet they never get held to account. We just let them get away with it.

GP ratings rapped by patient group

BY NICK SMITH

THE leader of a patient group has criticised NHS online ratings for doctors' surgeries, saying they 'do not paint a true picture'.

Kishore Janie, leader of Sundon Park Patient Sundon Participation Group (PPG), has published a document showing ratings compiled by regular users of practices across Luton.

He said: "The [NHS] initiative to bring the GP practices rating in the public domain is unfortunate it does not portray a true picture.

He said this is because it relies on online ratings and not a survey, so he created one. It's ranked on things such as opening hours, ease of contacting staff, booking an appointment, the overall experience and whether the survey taker would recommend the surgery.

On the reasons for carrying out the survey, he said: "For the NHS to meet the challenges of today and the future it is imperative all GP practices address the current health issues with their patients."

He also said he hopes other PPGs come together so practices in Luton can provide the best possible service, and called on surgeries to work together to improve.

Mr Janie added: "We are appealing to other PPGs to ioin forces with us to scrutidecision making and working practices with a view to challenging if they are not in patients' interests and considered to be wasting taxpay-

Junior doctors in two-day protest

BY JAMES AVERILL

JUNIOR doctors walked out of work at Luton and Dunstable Hospital and headed to the picket line for two days in protest at a new contract proposed by Health Secretary Jeremy Hunt.

Workers braved the cold. and at times the snow, as they protested outside the hospital from 8am until 5pm on Tuesday and Wednesday.
The doctors are striking over a new contract which aims to extend 'normal working hours on weekdays.

And while basic pay will rise by 13.5 per cent, unsociable hours overnight and at weekends would actually result in lower pay.

But the main concern for junior doctors is the extra hours, and how current staffing levels will be able to cope with the longer rotas.

Junior doctor Abu Abioye, who works at the hospital, said his decision to strike this week had been taken with a 'heavy heart'. He said: "It is not about pay, it's about safety and fairness prevent doctors from being overworked, and tired doctors are more likely to make mistakes.

This contract has not been well thought out and my voice has gone unheard by the government, all in the name of politics.

The hospital took a range of measures to minimise dis-ruption during the strikes. This included redeploying staff from areas such as outpatient clinics and operating theatres where they were unable to run clinics or operating lists.

A statement from the hospital said: "We ran as many outpatient appointments and planned operations and procedures as possible on both days, but we have had to postpone some appoint-ments and we are sorry for the inconvenience caused."

The hospital will soon be contacting patients whose procedures were cancelled.

A NEW mobile phone app that makes it easy for customers to reserve books at libraries in Luton has been launched.

The app lets users access the library catalogue, borrow items without needing their library card, renew and reserve items and scan barcodes on any book to see if it is in stock.

Hopkins hits out over refugee vote

BY NICK SMITH

nick.smith@lutononsunday.co.uk

MPs were split over the decision to allow 3,000 Syrian child refugees into the country.

Bedfordshire representatives were divided down the middle on introducing an amendment to the immigration bill, which was defeated by 18 votes.

Both Luton representatives, Gavin Shuker for Luton South, and Kelvin Hopkins for Luton North, supported allowing the children into the country. MP for Bedford and Kempston Richard Fuller and MP for Central Bedfordshire Nadine Dorries did not take part in the vote.

Mr Hopkins (pictured) said: "The amendment proposed that Britain accept 3,000 child refugees and this is a relatively small proportion of almost 100,000 children alone and at risk in Europe at present.

"This is the worst refugee crisis since the Second World War and we must do more. "It is an absolute disgrace that the Conservatives are opposed to accepting what is a relatively small number of children. I will definitely be voting again for the proposal when it returns to the Commons this week."

Luton on Sunday contacted the other MPs but they did not respond in time for our deadline.

CC candidates

BY NICK SMITH

FUNDING, tackling extremism and safeguarding women were some of the issues put to our prospective Police and Crime Commissioner (PCC) candidates by potential voters.

Four out of five cop boss candidates answered questions from the public at Bedford Blues rugby club on Monday evening. Hosted by Bedfordshire on Sunday and Luton on Sunday, the event saw a crowd of around 50 people quiz the prospective PCCs, who were eager to get their points across ahead of the election this Thursday.

In attendance was Labour candidate Olly Martins, Liberal Democrat Linda Jack, UKIP's Duncan Strachan and English Democrat candidate Toni Bugle, Conservative candidate Kathryn Holloway was unable to attend the hustings as she was admitted to Bedford Hospital, suffering with gastroenteritis.

Before the debate, each candidate was given a chance to say what they would offer in the role, which gave a flavour of what each candidate was about. Linda Jack spoke about how she is an ideal candidate, given her role in UNISON, saying this role was more about representing and relaying the con-cerns of the people than anything else.

Toni Bugle made a pledge to return to traditional policing methods and to clamp down on extremism. She also attacked the referendum called by incumbent Olly Martins last year, calling it a 'waste of money'.

Duncan Strachan stressed the importance of reporting crime, saying that around 25 per cent of crime is never heard by the police and stressed the need for more people to come forward. Olly

Martins reiterated his pledge to fight for 'fair funding' for our force. In a statement, Ms Holloway said: "I am very sorry not to be able to join the debate." She said the role is about 'policing and not national politics to me' and vowed to bring 'robust management' thanks to her xperience as a former journalist and as an emergency press relations expert.

BIG ISSUES: (I-r) BoS editor Sarah Cox charis the debate with Linda Jack, Toni Bugle, Olly Martins and Duncan Stracha

Fighting for more funding for the force was a key priority for most candidates. But when asked to name three positive things other than increased funding which the candidates aimed to bring to the force, three out of the four in attendance still insisted cash was crucial. Toni Bugle was the only candidate who said it would

"We have to concentrate on how we use that money in the best possible way. We have to make a decision on what to tackle first. Bedfordshire's police officers do the best with what they are given."

Other questions which were asked touched on the issue of honour crimes, protection of women and girls and female genital mutilation (FGM), which gathered a variety of different points from the candidates and was one of the most dis-police, so we need to support them as best we can."

Olly Martins lauded the force's recent successes in tackling such issues. He said: "We're yet to have a domestic homicide case in this country, which shows how we're doing very well, considering the funding." He also noted how Bedfordshire Police is the first force in the country to hand out an FGM protection order and also to secure a conviction for modern day slavery.

Linda Jack spoke about trying alternative policing methods in order to tackle these sorts of crimes. The Liberal Democrat said: "I ran a youth project in the Queens Park area of Bedford and everyone knew everyone's business, so I knew what was going on all the time in the area. This is why policing has to be holistic, so we can get into the communities to connect and educate."

The debate was a good chance to see what each of the candidates would bring to the role. If you are still undecided, you can go further in depth to help make your mind out.

SAVE the date and get your costumes ready, as preparations for the annual Luton

Carnival are in full swing. This year marks its 40th anniversary year and on Friday, official sponsor Luton on Sunday was invited to a launch party held at the UK Centre for Carnival Arts (UKCCA) in St. Mary's Road. Organisers said this was a perfect opportunity to cele-brate everything carnival has achieved, but also to look forward to what the future holds.

Chairman of the UKCCA, Hopeton Walker, welcomed attendees, saying: "While this is the first launch event, this is something we want to expand on and hold every vear as we look to make the carnival bigger and better

Johanne Hudson-Lett led a presentation celebrating all that Luton Carnival has to offer.

She started off by saying: "It's such an amazing feat to see the Carnival last 40 years, when so many others have cut back in recent years.

Marilyn Gearing of Luton Samaritans spoke about what the carnival meant to her and Luton.

Mrs Gearing was the first ever 'Carnival Queen' for Luton, being crowned Queen at the Luton Hat Fair in 1954. aged 15

She also played a part in the carnival's inaugural event in 1976, taking See part in the parade more in aid of Samaritans. something which she has done ever since.

Samaritans tradi-tionally have their presence at the finish line of Luton Carnival, to show the charity is always 'at the end of the phone line' for anyone who needs them.

Mrs Gearing also gave a sneak peak of what costumes they have in store for this year's parade. This year, costumes will be big gold telephones which depict telephones through the ages, representing the service which the charity provides. Speaking about what the carnival means to her, Mrs Gearing added: "The carnival is the flagship event of Luton and I hope it carries on forever."

Several youngsters who will be taking part in the parade this time round came out in costume, pushing home the point of how important it is to get the younger generation involved.

Artistic director for UKCCA, Clary Salandy, said: 'We are celebrating our 40th year through Marilyn and are celebrating what the future holds for the carnival through the youngsters.

"We want the carnival to be an event for the whole family, getting people involved from an early age.

'More and more people are getting involved in the event and 2016 marks the first time that Luton Town Football Club will be taking

Where Eliot wrote verse

TS Eliot is one of poetry's biggest hitters who's had a huge cultural impact. His Old Possum's Book of Practical Cats inspired mega musical Cats, the TS Eliot Prize is Britain's biggest poetry competition and a few years back, Eliot topped an online BBC poll to find the Nation's Favourite Poet.

US-born Thomas Stearns Eliot settled here in 1915 and worked as a schoolteacher before joining the publishers Faber and Faber where he promoted home-grown poets including W.H. Auden, Stephen Spender and Ted Hughes.

His notoriously unhappy first marriage to Vivien Haigh-Wood was said to have inspired The Waste Land, one of the 20th century's greatest poems. After her death, Eliot moved to Kensington Court Gardens in 1957 with second wife Valerie Fletcher, a secretary at Faber and Faber.

The marriage was criticised not only because it was kept a secret from everyone but her parents, but at the time Eliot was 68 and his bride only 30. A heavy smoker, Eliot lived in the building until he died in 1965, where his widow remained until her death in 2012.

On the market for £5.75m, the five-bedroom mansion house apartment is one of the largest lateral flats in the area, stretching into the building next door. Although boasting a grand formal reception room with ornate fireplace, along with an informal reception room and bedrooms with high ceilings and large windows, it could do with a complete overhaul.

Kate's not-so-Titanic house

ulti-award-winning actress Kate Winslet regularly picks up awards and accolades and rarely gets a bad review.

The A-lister, who most recently scooped the Best Supporting Actress BAFTA for her part in Steve Jobs, is currently in New York filming Collateral Beauty with Helen Mirren and Will Smith.

However, she's not universally popular and ruffled conservationists' feathers after she and husband Ned Rocknroll relocated from New York to live permanently on the West Sussex coast with her three The couple bought a Grade II-listed, eight-bedroom house for £3.25m and fell out with Natural England who feared her plans for a 600ft barrier to shield the 17th-century house from storms and high tides in West Wittering would destroy wildlife habitat.

The actress experienced similar friction from neighbours of her previous home in Treyford, Chichester, where she was forced to withdraw an application to build a set of wooden gates.

Winslet's first forays into property came after making her name in the blockbuster Titanic back in 1998, when the then 22-year-old used $200,000 of her growing fortune to buy this three-bedroom getaway in Angarrack, a 20-minute drive from St Ives.

She and first husband Jim Threapleton would spend weekends there with baby daughter Mia but sold it in 2001 for a £50,000 profit after splitting up. It's now got a £400,000 price-tag.

The Japanese-inspired holiday home is set over three floors with a double-height open plan kitchen/dining/ living room downstairs.

There's a separate, self-contained studio apartment, while a large deck runs round the whole house, leading into a timber bridge down to a landscaped garden.

Rural retreat of a rock legend

DURING the 1980s Ronnie Lane, bass player and founding member of the 1960s super band Small Faces, developed multiple sclerosis. But despite being broke and unable to earn a living, his celebrity pals rallied around him.

In 1983 Eric Clapton, Jeff Beck, Jimmy Page and members of the Rolling Stones got together to hold special charity concerts. And in 1996 an album, A Tribute to the Small Faces: Long Agos and Worlds Apart, featuring Paul Weller, Primal Scream, the Buzzcocks and Ocean Colour Scene raised £50,000 for Lane. However, he ended up living in poverty in Texas and died a year later aged 51.

Lane wrote classic hits including Lazy Sunday and Itchycoo Park. He went on to form the Faces, belting out the hit Stay With Me with Rod Stewart.

After moving to a farm on the Welsh borders, Lane enjoyed visits from his rock and roll friends, and locals remember impromptu performances in pubs with Eric Clapton, Keith Richards, Mick Jagger and Bill Wyman. There are also stories of Elton John and Lemmy from Motorhead travelling down to use Lane's recording studio.

His 1976 album One For The Road featured a panoramic photograph of his house which, although now looking somewhat different to the picture, is up for sale at £350,000 and needs a makeover.

The three-bedroom stone cottage in Hyssington, near Shrewsbury, has a lounge, kitchen/diner, pantry, conservatory, stables, garden with orchard, paddock and separate outbuilding that once housed the recording studio.

Live above Notting Hill bookshop

MOCKED by some hard-hearted critics, the film Notting Hill is undoubtedly a bit cheesy but was the highest grossing British film of 1999.

Audiences lapped up the rom-com's on-off relationship between famous actress Anna (Julia Roberts) and tongue-tied William (Hugh Grant.) a lonely divorced bloke who shares his house with a wacky Welshman called Spike – the role which made Rhys Ifans a star.

They fall in love after the Hollywood A-lister wanders into his independent travel bookshop, and ends with her tear-jerking proclamation: "I'm just a girl, standing in front of a boy, asking him to love her." Naturally, they live happily ever after, and a final montage sees them sitting cosily on a park bench, awaiting the birth of their child.

Richard Curtis penned the story after visiting The Notting Hill Bookshop in Blenheim Crescent, just off the capital's Portobello Road. Although none of the blockbuster was shot in either the shop or flat above, filmmakers used it to inspire set-building and plenty of tourists still take selfies outside

Sarah Anderson is moving out after living above the shop for 35 years – she sold the business in the 1990s before the film was made, but continued to run it for the new owners until 2005.

Her upper floor maisonette with its own private entrance boasts high ceilings and large windows. The master bedroom is on the top floor, along with a large bathroom and access to a terrace with views over Notting Hill. It's on the market for £1.495m.

Home to a controversial critic

PASSIONATE modern poetry pioneer Ezra Pound helped discover and publish several literary heavyweights including, most famously, Ernest Hemingway.

As foreign editor of American literary magazines, the expatriate American built a reputation as a literary reviewer and critic with views that wouldn't be out of place today; after the First World War, Pound believed that international capitalism was causing global conflict. However, his publicly pro-fascist sympathies didn't do him any favours and he ended up backing Italian dictator Benito Mussolini. Pound recorded hundreds of radio broadcasts for Rome Radio, praising Mussolini, criticising the US and claiming that the war was the result of a Jewish conspiracy.

He was arrested and held in a

US army prison camp before being declared insane and unfit to stand trial in 1945. A campaign by his fellow writers finally saw his release nearly 13 years later, and he returned to live in Italy until his death in 1972.

Pound's best-known works include Ripostes and the unfinished epic, The Cantos, and he got a lot of inspiration for his poems while living in London – from 1908 to 1920 – making an impression as a flamboyant character who walked around in a sombrero and large earrings.

He spent some of the time at this end-of-terrace Victorian house in quiet courtyard, Kensington Church Walk, where there's a blue plaque. All three bedrooms are en-suite with underfloor heating throughout. The open plan dining room has a glass roof while there's also a large terrace and off street parking at the front. It's on the market for £4.3m.

Honda HR-V

Take a look inside. . .

THE second generation Honda HR-V aims to stake a strong claim for the Japanese brand in the growing compact crossover

This time round, it's more spacious and better equipped to take on segment leaders like Nissan's Juke and Renault's Captur.

Buyers can choose from eithér a 1.5 petrol unit or a 1.6 diesel, both sending drive to the front wheels. It looks good and deserves to do very well.

Honda has ditched any pretence that this HR-V is a go-anywhere vehicle, offering it solely in front-wheel drive guise.

The body is extremely rigid due to a high percentage of high-tensile steel, and this in turn helps isolate the suspension to do its job properly.

Honda has concentrated on refinement, optimising aerodynamics to reduce wind noise at speed. The HR-V also employs a highly efficient acoustic insulation package.

Honda reckons the MK2 model HR-V combines the personality of a coupe with the solid stance of an SUV' and they're not too far wrong.

Think of it as a shrunken BMW X6 in appeal and you're not too far off the mark. The design is neat and interesting, with hidden rear door handles, deeply sculpted lower body panels and a CR-V-style front grille, headlamps and pointed taper at the rear side window line.

The cabin features quality materials, with a soft-touch dash top accented with brushed chrome and black inlays.

Unlike its predecessor, this HR-V's quite spacious inside. As well as splitting 60/40, the rear bench seat backs can fold forward as the seat base lowers to create a long, flat floor. The front and rear passenger seat backs can also fold forward to a horizontal position to accommodate longer items.

Its styling is neat and despite the sloping roofline, practicality looks well up to par. It's certainly a good deal more affordable and edgier than a CR-V. Of course, Honda has been here before with the HR-V but has learned lessons from that first generation

This time round, the brand has appreciated the need for real substance behind the style. With this in place, the HR-V will continue to appeal even if something fresher and more fashionable comes along. Job done.

Astra-Cratic Vauxhall Pays Tribute

It's not everyday Her Majesty the Queen turns 90, and to celebrate this monumental occasion, Vauxhall Motors has given the green light on a 'Royal Astra' to pay homage to the longest serving British Monarch. From a retractable regal red carpet to a specially designed corgi booster seat, the red Royal ride is fuelled with a variety of Astra-cratic add-ons to ensure Queen Elizabeth II arrives to her party in style. And it's not just her Majesty being honoured, Vauxhall have gone to great lengths to make sure the Queen's prized Corgis are suitably looked after in the Royal manner with their very own booster seat and her own windscreen wiping waving hand. Her Majesty has been a Vauxhall owner for more than 50 years, all in Balmoral Green, a bespoke deep green colour not normally supplied by Vauxhall. NEW CIVIC SPORT VARIANT LAUNCHED Honda has today announced a new addition to the popular British-built Civic range. The 1.4 i-VTEC Civic Sport will become the entry level product in the Civic family when it hits showrooms next month.

Priced at £18,360 OTR or £199 a month on a three year PCP deal with 5.9% APR and a deposit of £3,415, the new 1.4-litre petrol engine variant, available in manual transmission, joins the 1.6-litre, 120 PS diesel engine and the 1.8-litre, 142 PS petrol engine in the Civic Sport line up. Specifically styled as a more sporty and aggressive version of the family hatchback, the Civic Sport features a unique colour-coded rear spoiler and 17-inch alloy wheels and shares some of the striking design characteristics of the Civic Type R, with a lower grille mesh and a black roof lining for the cabin.

The Volvo XC90 has been crowned Best SUV at the Fleet World Honours 2016. The prestigious award ceremony was held at the famous Royal Automobile Club in London on Tuesday 19th April 2016. The XC90 was praised by the judges for its elegant design, luxurious and practical interior, and advanced safety and connectivity equipment.

The XC90 uses Volvo's all-new SPA platform and a range of powerful yet efficient Drive-E powertrains. These include the recently upgraded D5 diesel engine with its ground-breaking PowerPulse technology and the plug-in hybrid petrol-electric T8 Twin Engine.

The week the wheels fell off

FOR the past decade, cycling has arguably been the sport where Great Britain has excelled the most, becoming a winning machine envied by other countries.

The last two Olympic Games have seen GB riders dominate on the track, winning 14 out of the 20 gold medals available, and they have high hopes of adding to that amazing tally in Rio this August.

On the road, we've seen

On the road, we've seen three out of the last four Tours de France won by a British rider after 98 previous editions of cycling's most prestigious event going by without the owner of the yellow jersey coming from these shores.

But this is a week that has shamed British Cycling, specifically the allegations of bullying by former technical director Shane Sutton, who was forced to resign this week as the furore intensified.

It's remarkable how quickly this has all escalated since sprinter Jess Varnish spoke out against Sutton last weekend, claiming he told her to 'move on and get on with having a baby' after being dropped from the Olympic programme.

Varnish and Britain's women's sprint team had failed to qualify for the Olympics in the recent World Track Championships, but what has followed suggests this wasn't just an individual with an axe to grind.

Putting a few noses out of joint is often a requirement in sport if a team wants to be successful.

If the atmosphere is too comfortable that team will soon stagnate, just look at the England football team's 'Golden Generation' at the 2006 World Cup.

But being downright offensive is no way to get the best out of people. Would anyone in another profession accept being treated in the way Sutton apparently has Britain's cyclists?

Sutton apparenty has Britain's cyclists?

More allegations have followed; Sutton supposedly referred to para-cyclists (every bit as successful as the able-bodied cyclists, by the way) as 'gimps' and 'wobblies.'

One of the disabled cyclists to speak out against him was Darren Kenny, a six-time Paralympic gold medallist, who made it sound like their success may have been in spite of him.

Some, like Sir Chris Hoy, have defended Sutton, who denies any allegations of sexism or bullying behaviour, but his departure over this has plunged British Cycling into crisis and raised serious questions about its working environment.

All this with the Olympics less than 100 days away as well, and a week from hell has been compounded by the news that road cyclist Simon Yates has failed a drug test. It turns out that Yates is

It turns out that Yates is asthmatic and, rather than being a flagrant cheat, had tested positive for the banned substance terbutaline after a team doctor had failed to apply for a therapeutic use exemption (TUE).

It was a sloppy mistake from the cyclist and his team, Orica Green-Edge, who have accepted responsibility, but it couldn't have come at a worse time for British Cycling.

Yates could still take his place at the Olympics as part of Team GB as he hasn't been provisionally suspended.

As far as British Cycling is concerned, they need further success to follow this summer both on the road and on the track. They could do with that distraction.

CRICKET

AN unbeaten century from captain Andy Reynoldson and three wickets from England spinner Monty Panesar helped Bedfordshire to victory in their opening game of the season against Suffolk in the Unicorns Knockout Trophy last Sunday. Reynoldson's brilliant 123 not out came Reynoldson's brilliant 123 not out came off 163 balls and included nine fours and six sixes to help Beds recover from an awful start to post 248-7 from their 50 overs at Ampthill Town CC.

Luton-born Panesar, who is building up his fitness after undergoing shoulder surgery during the winter, was on loan from Northamptonshire, who he re-joined at the start of this month.

He took 3-20 for his home county from ten overs to put Bedfordshire well on top before bad light forced the players off with Suffolk on 113-5 and they weren't to return to the field, rendering the hosts the winners by 45 runs on the Duckworth/ Lewis method.

After winning the toss and putting Bedfordshire in to bat, Suffolk had them reeling by dismissing George Thurstance (two-ball duck) and Ben Howgego (1) in the first two overs.

Luke Thomas was then caught behind off Dominic Manthorpe for 20 before a fourth-wicket stand of 82 between Rob Keogh (another borrowed from Northants) and Reynoldson stabilised the innings.

Manthorpe took his second wicket as Keogh walked after clubbing 58 off just 64 balls and Callum Berrill (14) was to then follow him back to the pavilion.

Michael Pickard and wicketkeeper Nick Barden both went cheaply as they were caught and bowled by disgraced former Essex paceman Mervyn Westfield, who was playing his first match since his ban from cricket for spot fixing in 2012.

Reynoldson then accelerated past his previous Trophy best of 81 (v Lincolnshire in 2014) to complete his century off 157 deliveries before letting loose in the last few overs.

In just the second over of Suffolk's reply, Dean Bryce forced Sam Webb-Snowling to edge to Barden after facing three balls without scoring.

Colin Griggs then dismissed captain Tom Huggins (18) before Panesar came to prominence by trapping both Ben Parker and Martyn Cull lbw to reduce the visitors to 46-4. The left-armer had a third victim when Michael Comber was stumped by Barden after making 20.

At the end of the 33rd over, the fading light brought a premature conclusion to the match and with Suffolk comfortably behind on Duckworth/Lewis, Bedfordshire took victory.

They will look to make if two wins from two in Group Four later on today when they travel to Gerrards Cross, where they will face Buckinghamshire.

Jones demands more from Zane

FOOTBALL

BY JAMES CUNLIFFE

Nathan Iones said that Zane Banton's 'everyday lifestyle has to change after he was dropped for the 2-0 defeat to League Two champions to League Two champions Northampton over an "lack of disci-

The 19-year-old had made four substitute appearances in the last month after making his Football League bow and the manager revealed the striker was considered for a full debut at Sixfields, but was a surprise omission.

Banton did travel with the Hatters and quizzed over why he was left out of the squad, Jones said: "That's an inter-nal matter, he would have been, I had contemplated starting him, but it's an internal matter that we've had to deal with and it's a learning curve for young

"If he wants to be a professional footballer, he has to do a lot of things differently, as he has wonderful, wonderful ability and he's been a surprise for us.

"But his everyday lifestyle has to change to make sure it's conducive to being a top level footballer, otherwise he'll have these learning curves and today was one of them."

When asked about what Banton had done, Jones would only say: "It's just a little bit of a lack of discipline, which has cost hime really, we've missed that spark a little bit, but he's a young kid, he has to learn.

"I had to learn throughout my career, and so does Zane, it's nothing serious, nothing to be made more of but Zane will learn from it.

Luton were comfortably beaten by the classy Cobblers with first half goals from Zander Diamond and John Marguis.

"They showed in the first half why they are champions," Jones said, add-ing: "I could bemoan my team today but let's give Chris Wilder [Cobblers boss] credit for assembling and puting out a team, week in, week out, that has won the league. I'm glad we played because it's a gauge of where we want to be. These have been the best side all season. They must have been because the league doesn't lie."

Hatters winger Danny Green was an early casualty suffering a suspected broken leg in a challenge with Josh Lelan and getting stretchered off after lengthy treatment.

Jones said: "Ironically, it was the only time we put a tackle in, in the first half. Danny looks like he's broken his leg, which is unfortunate for him. He's come back in, he's tried to work hard and get levels of fitness so he can keep going and that's obviously given him a real setback now, so it's disappointing. We'll gauge it but we wish him well."

NORTHAMPTON TOWN LUTON TOWN

Cobblers all round. One the nickname of the champions, the other a family friendly way to sum up this Luton performance, this Luton season.

At Sixfields it was a procession, an exhibition appetiser before the main course of Northampton lifting the League Two trophy - a party the Hatters were incapable of pooping. For four months under boss Nathan

For four months under boss Nathan Jones they have sown a few seeds of hope, while they flirted with the play-offs, but with that a mathematical impossibility, this was more like the pre-Christmas Luton.

The quality of the hosts played a sizeable part and served as gauge of what is expected next term, if they have hopes of emulating this classy Cobblers side, but also a warning of the task on the Welshman's hands.

His boys from Bedfordshire's ponderous penchant for passing backwards was ruthlessly exposed by Northampton's contrasting raison

Rapid by thought and design, they twisted Town's blood, slicing, careering and cartwheeling through at will, so much so that the 2-0 scoreline flattered the Hatters.

Their post-match celebrations well-earned, there were Luton players on the pitch - Jonathan Smith and Cameron McGeehan - who have only memories of what being a champion like.

Two years is a long time in football and its no respecter of past glories. And, if you take points tallies into account then Luton, who now cannot match last term's haul of 68, have gone backwards.

Last term they finished agonisingly one place and three points off the play-offs. Now a bottom half of the table finish is the likely booby-prize. Of course, the blame for that really lies with the old regime, but it will be quite a gulf to make up after the summer, let alone reach the dizzying heights of what Northampton have achieved.

Such was the table-toppers' swagger that this game was effectively over after five minutes when the Hatters conceded a first corner and allowed Zander Diamond to thunder a header in at the back stick.

Things got worse soon after when Danny Green was clattered by Josh Lelan.

The Northampton man got a caution the Luton winger got gas, air, a stretcher and a trip to A&E. You could hear his leg snap up in the back row of Sixfields stadium. Horrible stuff.

The Hatters barely made it out of their half for 45 chastening minutes as the ubiquitous Ricky Holmes ran rings around them, inspiring "ole's" by the half hour mark

When the visitors did make it to the rarified atmosphere of Northampton's penalty area, Pelly

Ruddock Mpanzu larruped a cross at Joe Pigott who, despite the pace of the cross, should have done better than to head high and wide with the goal gaping. The hosts showed Luton how it

The hosts showed Luton how it should be done with a flowing move orchestrated by Holmes and finished by John Marquis, tapping into an empty net from John-Joe O'Toole's cross.

With the Cobblers queuing up,

Sam Hoskins hit the base of the post and David Buchanan blasted at keeper Elliot Justham before, from a Luton perspective, the welcome respite of the half time whistle.

Afterwards, though the visitors were much-improved, there was still the sense that Northampton were toying with them.
Hoskins was only denied a tap-in Hoskins was only denied a tap-in by Dan Potts after another Holmes counter, this time robbing McGeehan 20 yards from his own goal.

Two missed chances for Pigott highlighted another chasm between the two sides, because on chances alone the striker could have had a hat-trick. Hitting the post was as close as he came.

That leaves one more duty to fulfil against Exeter next week but, really, the season can't come to an end soon enough.
